

Dr. Prasanta Ghosh is a Professor in the Department of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science at Syracuse University, Syracuse, NY. He conducts research in the area of microelectronics and power engineering. As a Fulbright Scholar he has traveled internationally to teach engineering students and delivered lectures on his research. His current research work includes smart grid, power electronics and harmonics in the power system.